VISION
Community integration for all people with developmental disabilities

MISSION
Promote and support opportunities for people with developmental disabilities to live, work, learn and fully participate in their communities
2017 proved to be a busy year for Hamilton County Developmental Disabilities Services. We completed several major initiatives and began several others. Last year, we focused on thoughtfully engaging stakeholders and building capacity in the community for supporting people with developmental disabilities.

In May we completed the transition of our adult centers to Active Day. This was the culmination of a long process to comply with federal mandates, and the transition proceeded as smoothly as we could have hoped. I’m grateful to everyone who contributed to making that difficult change a success.

Last spring our Service and Support Administrators (SSAs) and funding staff relocated from Queensgate to the new Kingsley office in Madisonville—a significant undertaking that required much work, dedication, and flexibility. I’m proud of our team who coordinated all the moving parts. I’m also proud of our staff who didn’t allow the disturbance of the construction or the move impact their daily work.

In June we launched the Future is Now planning series to support older caregivers of people with disabilities, thanks to a grant from the Ohio DD Council. In 2018 we’ll continue to focus on this incredibly important issue through partnerships and additional sessions to empower the growing number of older caregivers in our community.

In July we launched a new provider search tool to make it easier for families to find options that fit their needs and help providers share information with families. We also partnered with the Ohio Provider Resource Association on a website to help recruit qualified direct support staff. In 2018 we have exciting initiatives planned to continue to empower providers, build capacity, and connect families to well-matched supports.

In late summer we completed another phase of our refinancing initiative, which extends our local tax levy dollars by funding services through Medicaid waivers. We also began the process of enrolling more than 200 people on waivers using funding we saved from no longer directly operating the adult centers. This is helping us reduce the number of people on the waiting list as we continue to meet the immediate needs of those still on the waiting list. Supporting people on the waiting list is a priority we’ve committed to continue addressing in 2018.

Throughout the year we actively engaged our stakeholders. In February we held focus groups to better understand how our stakeholders view our agency and how we can better connect with them. The thoughts, feelings, and ideas they shared informed much of our work throughout the rest of the year, including our new branding guidelines. This summer and fall, we also hosted formal conversations with parents, teachers, and local school district staff to discuss how we support students with disabilities in Hamilton County. This feedback gave us better information and a more complete understanding of our stakeholders’ needs as we plan for the future. In 2018 we will expand these efforts to better support families in our community.

We’re proud of the work we did in 2017. I want to thank our staff, board members, people and families we support, providers, and all of our community partners for their dedication to our mission.

Alice C. Pavey
Superintendent
We celebrated the 50-year anniversary of Ohio’s county boards of DD in 2017. In 1967, the Ohio legislature approved Senate Bill 169, establishing county boards of developmental disabilities across the state. We spent 2017 celebrating that milestone, but our history of supporting people with DD stretches back even further than our official designation as a county board.

Decades before county boards of DD existed in Ohio, parents in Hamilton County came together to create opportunities for their children and build networks of support for people with developmental disabilities in our community. Their advocacy work and the organizations they developed formed the bedrock of Hamilton County DD Services and the county board system across Ohio. As we marked our 50-year anniversary, we remembered this rich legacy and looked forward to the future.

In everything we do, we’re guided by our mission to promote and support opportunities for people with developmental disabilities to live, work, learn, and fully participate in their communities. As you read this report, you’ll see reflections of that mission woven into every facet of what we do.

Our 2017 Report to the Community captures our accomplishments and the innovative ways we pursued our mission last year. Each section describes a different aspect of how we support people with DD, highlights data we use to measure success, provides examples of service improvement, and tells stories of how our work is directly impacting the lives of people with DD in Hamilton County.

- Tailoring Supports highlights our work in 2017 to support people in ways that fit their individual lives.
- Empowering Providers showcases tools we gave providers to offer services of the highest possible quality.
- Making Connections explores the many ways we help people make community connections and navigate life transitions.
- Promoting Health and Safety recognizes the role of our Major Unusual Incident (MUI) and Behavior Support teams in keeping people safe by working proactively.
- Financial Report explains how we fund services and reflects our commitment to transparency.

As a board, we’re thrilled with our agency’s accomplishments in 2017, and we look forward to continuing to further our mission in 2018. Thank you for your support.

Nestor Melnyk
Board President
We work with people at every stage of life to identify the support they need, connect them to service providers and community resources, and supply matching funds for Medicaid waiver services. Our service and support administrators (SSAs) work across departments, neighborhoods, and service agencies to creatively navigate the web of supports available to each person.

SSAs use a person-centered planning approach to discover the attributes that make a person unique, including their strengths, abilities, talents, and dreams. In partnership with the person, the SSA uses this knowledge to develop an individualized plan that identifies supports to achieve purposeful results and help create a life that is truly meaningful to the person. In Hamilton County we call this plan the “My Plan.”

In 2017 we built upon our commitment to empower people with disabilities to succeed at every stage of life. From improving internal training, to piloting new programs, we focused on flexible, individualized solutions that begin with a person’s unique attributes rather than implementing one-size-fits-all plans.
Future is Now

Last year we received a grant to improve support for aging caregivers. We began developing a diverse advisory council to streamline the integration of aging and DD services, which is already improving access to information and equipping people to navigate both systems effectively. We also hosted three multi-part Future is Now sessions to help older caregivers and their families plan for the future.

Shared Living Initiative

Shared Living allows someone with DD to live full-time with a caregiver or family. Focus groups showed Shared Living services resulted in less isolation, more integration, and more consistency in caregivers. Only a small number of people were choosing this service option, so we identified barriers and created educational programs. As a result, we’ve seen a 17% increase in people using the Shared Living option.

First Responder Event

In October students from Bobbie B. Fairfax and Margaret B. Rost schools got an extraordinary opportunity to build trust, friendships, and a comfort level with first responders. Students and teachers spent a day at the Cincinnati Police training facility with police officers and firefighters where they enjoyed games and other activities. Due to the success of the event, planning is already under way for a second one.

Laura has worked at the Mt. Washington Kroger for more than a decade. When she’s not working, she practices taekwondo twice a week at a local academy. She earned her third-degree black belt and continues to train for the next level.

EMPOWERING PROVIDERS
EMPOWERING PROVIDERS

We partner with providers in Hamilton County to ensure people with disabilities can choose from a wide range of high-quality services to fit their individual needs. This outstanding network of service agencies is critical to our system of supporting people with DD. We equip and empower providers to offer the highest possible quality of services through training, consultation, and oversight.

People are free to choose any certified service provider who can meet their assessed needs. In addition to helping these agencies raise the bar of quality, we empower families to find the right provider for their lives and make an informed choice.

Throughout 2017 we expanded our efforts to help providers improve their services while also making it easier for people with DD and their families to find services to fit their needs. Whether offering training on billing or working with families to help customize programs, we collaborated with providers to improve services for families.

AVERAGE MONTHLY PROVIDER SEARCH VISITS
We launched our new provider search tool in 2017. The completely overhauled search interface of our web-based tool gives users a simple, intuitive, and powerful way to find providers who fit their needs. We’re also working to verify provider data every year so families know profiles in the search tool are up-to-date. You can try the new tool at providersearch.mvchccds.org.

Providers rely on hiring good direct support professionals (DSPs) to serve people with DD. In 2017 we partnered with the Ohio Provider Resource Association on DSPOhio, a statewide recruitment website. This effort combines multimedia advertising with an online job search that connects potential employees with providers looking to hire.

Thanks to feedback from our Quality Council, which includes families, providers, and HCDDS staff, we began an initiative to improve options for people with complex needs. These program design sessions seek to develop new, responsive supports with input from providers who are particularly interested in supporting people with complex needs.

Camille receives services through a Shared Living arrangement. She has lived with her caregiver’s family for nearly 10 years and joins family vacations and outings around Cincinnati.

Patrick, Carl, and Rob have been volunteering at Matthew 25 Ministries for years as part of a regular group from St. Joseph Home’s day program. Alongside other volunteers, they complete tasks like creating labels, taping boxes, or securing lids for shipping.
MAKING CONNECTIONS
We help people make connections to their communities and navigate life transitions, such as discovering opportunities for childhood playmates, building relationships at school and work, graduating from high school, finding a job, volunteering, or retiring.

These efforts span all ages and involve the work of many departments at our agency, including Early Intervention, Integration and Advocacy, Transition, Employment Navigation, SSA, and our two schools, which provide a safety net of services for students with the most complex needs.

In 2017 teams throughout our agency strengthened community networks in Hamilton County. This work allows us to meet people in their neighborhoods, share information about services, and develop partnerships with other organizations. Through these efforts, we’re able to help people reduce barriers that get in the way of being part of their community, finding employment, and achieving their goals.
Home Think Tank

Home Think Tank celebrated a decade of collaborating to create safe, accessible, and affordable housing for people with disabilities. During that time, Home Think Tank linked local developers and people with DD interested in home ownership, promoted visitability standards, trained housing inspectors and Realtors, provided input to city and county officials, assisted families with housing planning, and more.

Employment Navigation

We developed the Employment Navigation team in 2017 to assist job seekers with planning, monitoring, and making informed service choices to reach their employment goals. Employment Navigation helps job seekers and their families understand and access employment services. Our employment navigators ensure each person’s employment supports are effectively implemented by monitoring support outcomes and quality.

Community Connectors

Our Early Intervention team noted a lack of awareness about our services in Lower Price Hill, so we strategically partnered with Community Matters, a nonprofit focused on family stabilization, economic opportunity, and neighborhood revitalization in Lower Price Hill. By sharing information through Community Matters, we’re making connections and increasing awareness of programs for families in their neighborhood.

Jeff worked at the same job for 28 years in Chicago, so when his family moved to Cincinnati, it was a big transition. Our Employment Navigation team helped Jeff secure two part-time jobs, one at Frisch’s and another at Little Caesar’s.

Chloe volunteers at Hillebrand Nursing and Rehabilitation Center in Cheviot, an opportunity she found with help from an integration specialist at HCDDS. She uses her skills and talents to teach a weekly pottery class for the residents.
PROMOTING HEALTH & SAFETY
Keeping people healthy and safe is our highest priority. This includes making sure people feel safe. Our Major Unusual Incident (MUI) Team investigates all reports of abuse, neglect, and other incidents against people with DD. They work with local law enforcement to ensure people are held accountable for crimes and implement safety plans to prevent similar incidents in the future.

Our Behavior Support team also works to proactively prevent incidents by creating a variety of support strategies. Trauma-informed care guides our Behavior Support team as they seek to understand a person’s unique life experiences and implement support strategies informed by those experiences to keep that person safe. They also help train providers on implementing these strategies at home and in the community.

In 2017, MUI and Behavior Support focused on expanding local partnerships. As people with DD become more involved in their local communities, we’re growing the network of people who promote the safety of people with DD.

Members of the Behavior Support team completed the Trauma Certification Series through the Tristate Trauma Network. This training empowered our staff to bring comprehensive strategies to the other teams in our agency. Additionally, by deepening connections with other organizations practicing trauma-informed care, this series improved our ability to partner with other community resources.

We’re actively involved with the Resiliency Project, Project CARE, and the Southwest Ohio Trauma-Informed Care Collaborative. Through these partnerships, we work with other government organizations, nonprofits, and community groups to improve the safety of people with DD in our community. These partnerships help us share knowledge and resources.

We improved our processes for preventing and reporting provider fraud. In 2017 we created the Billing Audit Review Committee that regularly reviews billing information to identify red flags that might indicate fraud. This effort, along with our relationship with the Ohio Attorney General’s Office and the state’s Office of Provider Standards and Review, gave us better tools for fighting fraud.

The Resiliency Project creates cross-agency teams who use shared framework and practices to help people like Weston build resilience and heal from past traumatic experiences. Thanks to that project, Weston successfully moved into his own home.

Keya teaches a weekly Project CARE STARR class that helps women with disabilities learn about healthy relationships, personal rights, and empowerment. “I’m here to step up for others, be a friend, and help them speak up for themselves,” she said.
FINANCIAL REPORT
How We Fund Services

When possible, we fund services using federal Medicaid waivers. We administer three different types of waivers, each with different funding levels and requirements. All waivers require Hamilton County DD Services to pay about 40% of a service’s cost while Medicaid pays the remaining 60%. Funding services this way allows us to make the most of our local tax levy dollars and serve as many people as possible within a limited budget. When someone receives a waiver, we’re making a lifetime commitment to support that person’s needs, and we don’t take the commitment lightly.

In 2017 we completed another phase of our refinancing project to make better use of our local tax levy dollars. In the past, many people received services without funding through a Medicaid waiver, which means Hamilton County DD Services paid 100% of the cost of a service. Through our refinancing project, we examined those cases to determine whether a person could be better served through a Medicaid waiver. By sharing costs with Medicaid, we saved more than $2.5 million annually, freeing up resources to support more people in Hamilton County.

At the end of this section are three examples of how a person might use each type of waiver and how the funding would breakdown. Remember, these are simply potential ways a person might use a waiver. Each person we serve has his or her own unique needs and goals, and our Service and Support Administrators (SSAs) use person-centered planning to put supports in place that take a person’s individuality and identified needs into account.
Federal Medicaid waivers provide funding for 51% of people we support.

For each waiver service provided, Medicaid pays about 60% and we pay the remaining 40% using local funding from the DD Services levy.

Medicaid waivers efficiently use our tax levy dollars to secure more than $92 million of federal funding that’s reinvested in our local economy.

Medicaid waivers guarantee people are free to choose any willing and qualified provider who fits their individual needs and has been certified with the Ohio Department of Developmental Disabilities.

No matter what provider people choose, we coordinate all services ensuring quality standards while keeping people safe.

With more than 800 certified providers, people have a wide range of choices for quality services that offer the support they need.
